Martin Radvan is Chairman of Weatherbys, a UK conglomerate involved in a wide range of activities, largely within horse racing, genomics and banking.

He is a Global Advisor for the Economics of Mutuality Foundation in Geneva, having spent many years piloting and running programs using the methodology to 'do good through doing business.'

He was an NED of Chipita SA, a fast-growth branded international food company headquartered in Athens, Greece, until their sale to Mondelez.

Martin retired in January 2019 as Executive Vice President of Mars Inc., and President & CEO of Mars Wrigley Confectionery, the world's largest confectionery manufacturer. He was responsible for all the Mars chocolate, gum, mints and confections brands. He has returned from the US to be based in the UK and is a Brit by nationality.

His board experience includes many years working with the Mars main board and attending its meetings and sub-committees. He managed the Berkshire Hathaway relationship, leading annual meetings with Warren Buffett. He is now Chairman of Weatherbys.

Martin has held a wide range of functional roles during his career with Mars, has served as Group CIO and run the Drinks segment. He has lived in the US, UK, Middle East and France.
